

Boarding Houses Fact Sheet

Background

Boarding houses (called rooming houses in Victoria and Queensland) provide accommodation in return for a fee. The fee is similar to paying rent. This usually provides the resident with the right to occupy a room with the use of shared facilities including bathroom, kitchen, and common areas.

Whilst the resident will execute an agreement, they do not have the same rights as tenants.

Over the past couple of years construction of this type of asset has occurred in an endeavour to provide housing for an increasing population and affordable accommodation for lower income applicants.
